

Hardworking people deserve to feel safe and secure on the job without worrying about what may happen if they are injured.

In order to protect employees, the Pennsylvania government instituted workers' compensation laws that require companies to carry insurance policies that cover employees' wages and medical bills if they are injured at work.

If you work in northeastern Pennsylvania, a workers' compensation attorney from Rosenn Jenkins & Greenwald LLP may be able to help you obtain the workers' compensation benefits you deserve. Our team of experienced attorneys represents people injured in many different types of work incidents, including construction site accidents and industrial and manufacturing accidents.

To learn more about the services we offer, or to schedule a consultation with one of our attorneys, please visit <https://www.rjglaw.com/workers-compensation/>