

Labor and employment matters can be especially complicated, often involving complex state and federal regulations. Issues often arise quickly, requiring employers to make rapid decisions. The best way for employers to protect their interests is to work with a team of experienced attorneys.

At Rosenn Jenkins & Greenwald, LLP, our labor and employment lawyers use years of experience and in-depth knowledge of the law to help get results for our clients. We are a Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania-based management law firm representing both public and private-sector employers in all areas of labor and employment law. Our Labor and Employment Law department is comprised of James P. Valentine and Kieran M. Casey.

Because we are capable of handling a range of labor and employment matters successfully, our clients are able to turn to us again and again for solutions to the issues they face. In fact, many employers have turned to us for years. They rely on us to be of counsel whenever a legal question arises.

To learn more about our approach, or to set up a consultation with James or Kieran, please visit <https://www.rjglaw.com/labor-employment/>